Henson Replies to Settle.

In a recent issue of this and other papers, my opponent, Judge Settle, published a signed statement in which he tries to get away from the effect of an opinion given out by a number of prominent lawyers in the district that under the law he is not a resident of the district, by stating that I inspired the lawyers to make the charge. The truth is a number of lawyers and laymen in the district have been discussing his ineligibility for many weeks, and this is notably true of citizens of Warren county, in which he claims to reside. Judge Settle's signed statement was in answer to an article which recently appeared as a news item in the Hartford Herald, giving an interview with several prominent attorneys who took the position that Judge Settle was not a resident in the district and was not eligible to re-election as judge of the court of appeals. In an effort to show that he resides in the district, Judge Settle, in his statement, says that he has voted in Warren county, and by reason of this he claims that he is a resident of that county. He may have voted there, but if he has, that does not establish his legal residence. It is known by everyone that many vote where they have no legal right to do so. A person's residence is not established by his vote, but on the contrary, he obtains a right to vote after he has had a fixed residence for a certain length of time. The facts are that Judge Settle and family sold their home in Warren county some fifteen years ago and moved out of this appellate district to Frankfort and there they bought a home and have resided there every moment since. The constitution and laws of the state require the judge to reside in the district, but give him the right to remove with his family temporarily to Frankfort, provided he files and causes to be recorded in the county clerk's office of both counties a written statement showing that his removal to Frankfort was only temporary and that he retained his residence in the county he moved from. Judge Settle in his statement admits that this has been the law for more than forty years, and he also admits that he has never complied with that law. He attempts to justify his action by saying that this law "has been largely disregarded by officials of the state," because he says "this statute is merely directory and not mandatory." In my judgment this law is mandatory for it provides that he SHALL file and have recorded a written statement showing that his removal was only temporary, and this being so, Judge Settle is not eligible to re-election, and in this opinion I am supported by a great number of the best lawyers in this district. This law may have been "largely disregarded," as he says, and it certainly has been by him, but that is no answer. The law against bootlegging and many other crimes has unfortunately "been largely disregarded," the law requiring deeds to be recorded in the clerk's office so as to protect the owners' title; the law requiring the filing of a certificate with the clerk within a certain time to enable one to get his name on the ballot and many other laws have been and are overlooked or disregarded, and many persons have been punished or sustained a loss by not observing them. Although a law may be disregarded by some, it is nevertheless a law, and is as solemnly binding on a judge as the humblest citizen. Even though this law which provides how he must retain his residence in the district was only directory, as he contends, still he admits that he refused to obey it. Why should a judge, especially of the highest court, refuse to observe any statute even though it may be only directory? By recent decisions of the court of which he is a member many persons have been denied a place on the ballot or have lost their office by not complying with laws much less mandatory in terms than this one. I am astonished at the position taken by him. Judge Settle has been on the bench for about twenty-six years, and has been paid in monthly salary about $110,000, so I suppose he begins to feel that some of the laws as to him are "mere scraps of paper," and are only meant for the other fellows. He calls on his friends not to be disturbed, but I am sure the people and the Democrats of this district will not be thus pacified, and nominate Judge Settle, who will almost certainly lose in a contest with a Republican after the November election, even though he should receive the majority of votes at said election. One of the Republican candidates for this office has already stated that Judge Settle was not eligible to the office.

I shall not at this time notice the insinuations made by him for they do not affect the issues involved. Independent of these questions, I feel that I will certainly win by a splendid majority, and especially so if my neighbors in this section will do what I have every reason to believe they will in supporting me. I am respectfully yours,

J. W. HENSON.

Some thirty minutes later the body was recovered and Dr. Ford made an effort to resuscitate him but it proved fruitless. After funeral services by Rev. M. G. Snell, the remains were laid to rest at Central Grove Wednesday morning.

PROHIBITION IS COMING!

It looks at last as though John Barleycorn is doomed. His knell has been sounded from the capitol; his death warrant is issued from the hands of the high judiciary, and the blood hounds of the law are on his trail. His fate is sealed and he must go. But with his passing will vanish many a time-honored precedent and custom. No more will the leather-lunged orator proclaim the evils of drink from the towering platform, while his sleeping audience dreams of clinking glasses and flowing steins. No more will the editor, with feet cocked at a right angle to the rising sun, write screaming editorials on the curse of liquor. We must be kind to the memory of the dead. Hallowed and sacred is the spot where even the evil repose in their last long slumber. Politicians will have to invest a new coin with which to buy their offices, editors must select a new victim for their shafts, and orators turn to a field more productive in results for their labor. For liquor is passing. Its vice-like jaws have too long gripped the public, like the monsters of old when youth and beauty was a sacrificial gift to the dragon's hungry maw. Its coils are loosening. Already the knights errant, like the heroes of other days, are driving the many-headed monster from his labyrinthine lair. The liquor traffic must go with all its evil influence.

It is well. Many and sad are the incidences of the woe and suffering it has engendered, of lives it has broken and the homes made desolate and sad. Even those in high places, who tread the primrose path of dalliance and idly cavil at an idle day, have yielded up the richest jewels of honor and wealth and sacrificed all to the green-eyed god of thirst. And even those who are leaders of the minds of men have fallen victims to its snares. An example of this recently came under our notice. A man who occupies a place of prominence who sways the opinions of hundreds of his fellow-citizens, was recently sent to a neighboring town on a mission of importance which demanded an immediate return. But sad to state, the glasses brimming with royal "red eye" tempted, the bottled spirits called, and he fell. His mission was apparently forgotten. Reports came of a flying-joy-ride, speeding down the pike, a car turned turtle in a ditch and a trip back to the city. We do not accuse this gentleman or the hundreds of others which we could cite, of wrong intentions. It is only the evil temptation too strong to bear, which wrecks so many lives.

Yes, we are glad prohibition is coming. It will save the public many an annoyance and the fair name of some will be untainted. It is coming like the gathering of the clans. All the adverse forces cannot halt the invincible cause. Its momentum is irresistible. Let it come.

Our esteemed contemporary published in its last week's issue an article to the effect that a crusade has been started against the wasteful process of handknitting by the good women of the Red Cross. This article says that a writer says that he has "never seen a soldier on the field wearing a sweater or hand knit socks." Evidently somebody, somewhere is wrong, for we have seen many letters from soldiers thanking individuals and expressing their appreciation of the sweaters, socks, etc. sent them by Red Cross chapter's and some of these boys whom we personally know, will wear the articles made for them by the good women of the United States. There is no doubt to our mind that the Red Cross is doing a wonderful work in every way—handknitting sweaters and socks just as much so as in anything else—and they should not be discouraged in the least. On the same page with the above article referred to, is a notice in "Red Cross Notes" to the effect that the local chapter is expected to furnish "one hundred sweaters and five hundred pairs of socks by September 1st," and pray tell what will become of these articles if not used by our soldier lads? We do not agree with Mr. Thomas that the good women of Ohio county should divert their energies into more practical channels, for to our mind there is nothing more practical than the making of articles for the comfort of the boys who have gone out to fight our battles. On with the handknitting!

Newspapers and speakers are always pointing a finger of scorn at the boys who stay at home and describing the awful contempt in which they will be held when the war is over. But we think they should be more discriminating in some cases. Of course, no body admires a coward or esteems a slacker. But it isn't always the one who rushes headlong to the recruiting station without reason, who is always the bravest. Some boys, who are just as patriotic as the early volunteers, wait to be drafted and even claim exemption. We are not trying to excuse any able-bodied young man, without dependents. But if a soldier in bad health enlists and is accidentally passed by the examining physician, he breaks down under the strain and goes to the hospital. Thus he becomes a liability to his government rather than an asset. Or if one with dependent relatives, fired by patriotism, joins the army or navy it will either enter hardship on those dependents or put the Government to extra expense. We believe some have legitimate excuses for staying at home and if such is the case the finger of scorn should not be pointed at them.

John Purroy Mitchell is dead. Only a few years ago we remember the brilliant young attorney who led the fight against corruption in politics in Gotham, won over the efforts of Tammany Hall and was sworn in as New York's youngest Mayor. He held this office with fullest honor and integrity but was defeated recently in an election and immediately volunteered his services, being commissioned as a flyer. His death by an accident came a few days ago, adding another name to the list of those who have "paid the full measure of devotion."

President has been fortunate in the selection of his cabinet and officials. He can call in Baker with his doughboys, summon the erstwhile Garrison, Marshall his forces and keep peace while times are so Tumult.

PREACHER HELD ON ESPIONAGE CHARGE.

Bowling Green, Ky.—The Rev. J. W. Wheeler, of Glasgow Junction, Barren County, was held to the December grand jury of the Federal Court by United States Commissioner Bryon Renfrew, charged with violating the espionage act. He gave bond in the sum of $1,000.
Four prominent citizens testified that the defendant said that this war was an unrighteous one, and that if the German soldiers did ravish the Belgian women it was no more than the American soldiers had done, as he had heard of two soldiers at Camp Taylor attacking girls in Louisville. He denied making these statements. Mr. Wheeler is a Baptist minister and for several years has held pastorates in this county.

The July Farm and Fireside says: "Keep the water at a jumping boil and do not allow the fire to die

"Keep the cover on the canner during every moment of the processing time. Steam plays a large part in cooking.

"Examine jars and cans occasionally during the summer to detect any sign of fermentation, leaking, or swelling.

MRS. MARLAR WANTS EVERY WOMAN TO TAKE VIN HEPATICA

Says it Saved Her Life After Eight Years of Suffering From Stomach Trouble and Nervousness. Five Different Doctors Had Treated Her With Out Results.

"I hope everyone who has stomach trouble or nervousness will try Vin Hepatica. It saved my life, after eight years of suffering," writes Mrs. Ida V. Marlar, of 206 Elinor St. West Chattanooga, Tenn.
"I had been treated by five different doctors who did me no good. Was so poor and weak that neighbors thought I had consumption. I could hardly sleep at night, I was so nervous.
"Now I sleep soundly all night, feel better than I have for eight years; am fleshier and stronger, and feel well in every way. Can eat anything. I hope everyone who has stomach trouble or nervousness will try Vin Hepatica. We don't know how to appreciate good health until we are nearly dead and then get well. The Human Factors In Good Service

There are three parties to every telephone conversation—the party calling, the trained operator, and the party who answers. All three share alike the responsibility for quick and accurate telephone service.

The calling party should give the correct number in a distinct voice, speaking directly into the transmitter, and wait at the telephone until the party answers or the operator reports. The called party should answer promptly.

Patience on the part of the telephone user and the telephone operator is also essential to good service.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Hartford Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Hartford citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders or any form of kidney ills, use a tested kidney medicine.

A Hartford citizen tells of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?

Lorenza Acton, Pike St., Hartford, says: "I have suffered with backache and pains across my kidneys, and have found that Doan's Kidney Pills regulate my kidneys and help my back whenever I get this way. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a reliable kidney medicine."

THE HUN'S BIGGEST GUN

German Propaganda Like a Knife Thrust in the Back

By CLARENCE L. SPEED

(Written for the War Committee of the Union League Club of Chicago.)

Smash that damned Hun propaganda and we will smash the German line.—General Pershing.

General Pershing has seen conditions at home and he has faced the German troops in France. He knows that Germany has a powerful war machine, but he is not afraid of it. He knows that American soldiers are the match for the troops of the kaiser, and that American spirit "over there" is as staunch as man's heart can be.

What General Pershing is afraid of—if he knows fear at all—is not the high explosive shell, the poison gas, the minenwerfer or the machine gun, but the secret, treacherous, underhanded German propaganda that is still going on here in the United States.

Secret Propaganda Goes On.

It is certain that the secret German propaganda goes on. It reaches into the homes and wrings the heartstrings of the mothers whose sons are going overseas. It sneaks into the factories where war work is being done and whispers to the workers to slow up. It penetrates into the meeting halls of labor unions and says "strike." On the railroads, where hundreds of thousands of workers are struggling with the greatest congestion this country has ever known, the German propaganda spreads discontent. To the farmer it says "hoard" and to the city consumer it whispers of extortion and profiteering. To the man of business it preaches of government incompetency and inefficiency; and to the derelict, the wanderer, the tramp—if you please—it preaches class hatred and revolt.

Loves the Pacifist Here.

Germany, the nation which glorifies war above all else, loves the pacifist in this country. Peace is the favorite topic of conversation among the pro-Germans. They would quit cold, would compromise, would do anything, in short, except fight out this war to a finish and crush forever that menace of militarism which, above all things, the pacifist is supposed to abhor.

Creating friction and jealousy among the nations allied against the kaiser is one of the propagandists' most effective methods. They are active abettors of that group of Americans of Irish extraction who are bitter against England. They work effectively among the half educated who, by superficial reading of United States history, have been accustomed to regard England as America's traditional enemy. They create distrust and suspicion of Japan, and both here and in the Orient have so sown the seeds of suspicion that at times it seemed as though a conflict must inevitably ensue. Down in Mexico bandits like Villa get money and supplies from mysterious sources, making necessary the holding of a considerable American force on the border.

How far reaching and well organized the German propaganda was in this country just before we entered the war was shown in 1915 when members of congress were flooded with nearly a million telegrams, all of identical wording, protesting against the shipment of arms to the enemies of Germany. The American Embargo Conference was the organization behind these messages. It sprang up almost in a night and a million telegrams cost a lot of money.

The American Truth society was another of the organizations which seemed to have plenty of funds and sought to influence members of congress in favor of prohibiting the shipment of arms and ammunition. Then there was the German-American National Alliance which recently went out of business while its activities were under fire of congressional investigation. The Teutonic Sons of America and other similar bodies also were openly active just before we went into the war.

We hear very little of these organizations now, but their members are still in the United States. It is highly improbable that they all experienced a change of heart the moment the United States declared war.

Spread Red Cross Rumors.

They spread the rumors about the Red Cross selling its supplies instead of giving them to the soldiers for whom they are intended.

They torture American mothers with wild stories of shocking immorality in France—tales which are refuted by the magnificent way in which the French armies have stood up against overwhelming odds.

They cause unrest by spreading rumors of food being commandeered in the pantries of private homes, and they seek, by exaggerating tales of scarcity, to cause excessive buying which increases the scarcity.

They cause the city consumer to believe that he is being made the victim of extortion, while at the same time they tell the farmer he is not being paid enough for his grain and live stock.

Rumors of the torpedoing of transports, with the loss of thousands of soldiers, they find particularly effective in causing anxiety in the hearts of those whose loved ones have gone across the seas, or mothers whose sons are about to be taken in the draft.

All such stories, started originally by pro-German propagandists, are often spread, innocently enough, by loyal Americans, who repeat them and talk about them. Thus they unwittingly become the tools of the kaiser.

"Let the German agents who invented these lies be the only ones to pass them on," is the plea of the administration and of ordinary patriotic horse sense.

If this is done it soon will be possible to spot a man who is in favor of Germany just as easily as though he were out in the middle of the street trampling an American flag.

Peril in Fox's Propaganda.

How much more a menace German propaganda is than German military might is easily seen by the experiences of Russia and Italy. The uneducated Russians, restive under a strict autocracy, and fighting, not for the principle of democracy, but because they were ordered to fight, were told that all they need do was to lay down their arms and they would have peace.

The Italians were told that the French and English troops were shooting down their wives and children, who were starving at home.

There are hundreds of thousands of Americans of German descent who are American to the core and who are doing all that they can for the cause of America. All honor to them. Side by side with these loyal citizens, however, and sometimes hiding behind their cloak are the skulking allies of the kaiser.

America now knows or should know the danger from these crafty plotters and their insidious German propaganda. And what can we each do about it? We can and should challenge every story we hear which smacks of German propaganda. Refuse to accept any story tending to weaken American morale without the proof.

NO OUTWARD SIGN OF GRIEF

Dumb Agony of Cossack Woman, Taking Leave of Mate, More Impressive Than Flow of Tears.

It was the square of Yurievets (on the Volga) that one of those tragic fragments which life casts up like driftwood was flung at our feet. A Cossack's leave-taking of his mate; that was all, a million times repeated in a million different izbas, in that one summer. But it was more—symbol of woman's ancient and inarticulate grief.

These shawled and booted women of the North are too burdened with earth's sorrow to weep; they are like dumb cattle in their woe. The soldier himself was openly wiping his eyes on his coarse, dusty, brown sleeve, while under both arms he clutched absurdly two enormous loaves of black bread. A dinky little child in its mother's arms fluttered uncomprehending hands in the direction of the steamer; but from the Mongol-cheeked, gray-eyed woman there was no sign.

She neither touched her man in farewell, nor offered any of those small caresses by which we seek to mitigate our grief. The sullen silence of the North had laid its finger upon her, but her eyes followed her mate with the wild, unreasonable grief of the forest sprung. She stood still staring, unaware of the baby in her arms, while the steamer moved slowly out into the gray mists. Long after dusk had closed down, I could see her face straining in the gloaming like a mask of despair.—Olive Gillbreath in the Yale Review.

MERELY COUSINS OF CHRIST

Explanation of Biblical Passages That Seem to Say the Redeemer Had Brothers and Sisters.

To judge from the passages Matthew 12:44, 46; 13:55, 56; Luke 7:19; St. John 7:3, 5, 10, Christ undoubtedly had brothers and sisters. These passages, are, however, contradicted by others, from which we learn that the pretended brothers of Christ were only his cousins. Thus, according to Luke 6:15, and John 19:25, James was the son of one Alphaeus, or Cleophas, and Mary, the Virgin's sister. From Matthew 27:55, and Mark 15:40, we learn that James, or Joseph, was James' brother, and so, according to Luke 6:16, was also Jude. In other passages the fourth pretended brother of Christ is designated by the Jews as the brother of James, Jude and Joseph. It is also claimed, in explanation of this theological puzzle, that the Jews were wont to apply the term brother to cousins, to relatives in collateral line, and even to mere friends (Genesis 12:14-29). The view that the above-mentioned personages were but Christ's cousins, and not his brothers, is held by Tertullian, Origen, Ambrosius, Irenaeus and, in fact, by all the Catholic church; also prominent protestants (Grotius, Calvin, etc.) share in it.

To Make Your Shoes Last.

When your shoe leather gets dry or hard, you should oil or grease it, says the popular Science Monthly. To do this, first brush off all mud and then wash the shoe in warm water, drying it with a soft cloth.

While the shoe is still wet, apply the oil or grease, rubbing it in with a swab of wool, or better still, with the palm of the hand. After treatment, the shoes should be left to dry in a warm but not in a hot place. Castor oil is recommended for shoes that are to be polished. For plainer footwear, fish oil and oleine or any one of the less expensive oils may be substituted with very good results.

FRENCH ROAD SYSTEM A REVELATION TO SOLDIERS.

(Engineering News Record)
 "Every soldier over here from the United States will go back an enthusiastic good roads advocate," writes Capt. Paul Hansen, former chief engineer, Illinois State Board of Health, from general headquarters in France. He is in the water supply service with Lt. Col. F. F. Longley, formerly with Hazen, Whipple & Fuller. Parts of his letter follow:

"The roads are marvelous and the country wonderfully beautiful and picturesque."

The French road system is a revelation even in time of war, not so much in the matter of construction, because we can and do build macadam roads as good or better, but principally in the matter of upkeep, for which the French have a positive genius. Roads are divided into sections like our railroads, with little section gangs who keep their tools in neat little stoke section tool houses. As soon as a bad post develops on a road it is repaired and when the spots become so numerous that they cannot be repaired at once, an entire new layer of broken stone and binder is put down. The problem is simplified very much by the fact that suitable road metal can be found anywhere a few inches below the surface.

"Another striking feature of the French roads is the great care observed in promptly removing all surface water. On each side of the road at intervals of about fifty feet little waterways are kept clear leading into grass lined side ditches outside of the tree line."

WHEAT SELLS FOR

$50 IN TURKEY.

A cablegram recently received in Washington by Dr. William W. Peet, treasurer of the American Board Commission of Foreign Missions in Constantinople, from the American and Syrian Relief Commission in Turkey, transmitted thru Switzerland, states that wheat now sells in Turkey for $50 a bushel. In prewar days 50 to 60 cents was the normal price. Speaking of this advanced price Dr. Peet said, "This indicates to me that the supply is now coming from North Bulgaria."

For some time those of small means in Turkey have been using the seeds of certain weeds, barley, and sesame ground together as a substitute for flour. "The seeds furnished by the Pasha to be planted for crops were used for food," said Dr. Peet, "as assurance of harvesting the crops was so uncertain that the people would not waste their energy in planting something that they might not reap."

"AT 'EM, BOYS; EAT 'EM UP."

Speaking of potatoes, not ball players. It may not pass the examination for dignity, but this hoarse suggestion of the bleacher fan quite accurately carries the thought which the Department of Agriculture and the Food Administration are trying to impress upon Americans in the "Eat-potatoes" campaign. It's a serious obligation.

Millions of bushels of potatoes should be eaten within the next few weeks. If we eat them, we can save wheat and potatoes both. And if we save wheat, the boys in France who are holding that line can "carry on" under the same rallying cry—"At 'em boys; eat 'em up."

THEY SHALL PAY.

We have left our homes and mothers. We have left our homes and mothers. In the good old U. S. A.—We have heard the call of brothers. For help, across the way. We have stood the dreary training. Stood hardships every day. At that we're not complaining—But someone's got to pay.

We have crossed the broad Atlantic. We've dodged the submarine; We've scratched until we're frantic. And we've battled with the bears. We have traveled a la cattle. Now we're bunking in the hay; But the Huns will know in battle Just who has got to pay.

In the front-line muddy trenches, Scorched by the bursting shell. We've breathed the gas and stench Of sons of Huns of Hell. But for us they have no terrors. We put them where they stay; We fill them full of errors And take their blood in pay.

We have seen the dead and mangled. We've heard the children's cry; We've seen the barbed wires tangled With dead, and learned to die. But above the din and rattle, And torture of the fray, We have heard the God of Battle, "Go to it—make em pay."

—WILLIAM R. WOOD.

VIENNA PLACED ON FAMINE RATIONS.

Amsterdam, July 12.—The alarming situation in Vienna is described in a despatch to the Berlin Tageblatt from its Vienna correspondent, who says:

The daily rations per head are fixed at approximately three ounces of bread and flour substitutes, one ounce of meat, less than a quarter ounce of fat, two and a half ounces of potatoes, three quarters of an ounce of jam and a quarter of an ounce of war coffee, making the total daily allowance seven and three-quarters ounces.

These rations may be supplemented by recourse to secret channels and by the payment of exorbitant prices the correspondent declares. For example, flour can be secured by paying the equivalent of from $4.50 to $5 a pound; meat at from $5.75 to $7 and horse flesh at $3.50 a pound.

WOUNDED ARE GREETED.

Paris, July 12.—American wounded arriving here Monday met with the same cheering reception as accorded the first arrivals early in the Marne battle.

As the slightly wounded passed from the station into waiting Red Cross cars and ambulances shop girls flung down coppers on nearby flower stands and hurriedly rushed over and thrust bouquets on them.

The Parisienne likes nothing better than to be seen with a wounded soldier. Decorations for bravery appeal to her, but Legions of Honor and War Crosses cannot compare in her estimation with the privilege of walking with a soldier lad who has been "ja bas," up there where the steel cracks open and tears the flesh. The families of France are taking our wounded lads into their foyers, and France could pay no greater compliment to Americans.

B. Y. P. U. ORGANIZED.

On Saturday night July 6th at the old historic Baptist church Pond Run near Echols, was organized a B. Y. P. U. society of twenty members. Bro. Addie Robertson was elected President and Miss Rhoda Williams Secretary. They held their first meeting Saturday night July 13th at 8:00 p. m. and every Saturday night thereafter. There are about 75 young people in the church who are very willing to do work for the Master. Bro. Birch Shields is pastor.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If work is tiring, if your nerves are excitable, if you feel languid, weary or depressed, Scott's Emulsion will prove a wonderful strengthener.

It possesses the very elements to invigorate the blood, nourish the nerves and build strength.

Every druggist has Scott's. Try it.

HUMORIST HAD LAST LAUGH

How Mark Twain Turned Joke on Vienna Authorities Will Be New Story to Many.

The letters of Mark Twain record but little concerning the years he spent in the Austrian capital, the Christian Science Monitor observes. The humorist did some special writing for American papers during those "Wanderjahre." Indeed, the Vienna journalists took him to their hearts as a colleague of a particularly genial type and often invited him to a friendly "spread," at which the guests were members of the Austrian fourth estate. The story of how he got into trouble with the authorities, through the indiscretions of a Vienna journalist, has probably never been published.

As the tale goes, a certain reporter, either in a facetious or a vindictive moment, gave out that Mark Twain had been seen suspiciously loitering about the bridge which spans the Danube canal near the Ring strasse, and not far from the Hotel Metropole, at which the Clemenses lived. Mark could not let this reflection upon his character go unchallenged. He hastened to explain—to apologize, in fact, for having given the authorities the slightest anxiety about him.

The explanation was thoroughly Twainlike. He had found by the bridge the longest German word he had ever seen and, in order to comprehend it in all its longitude and latitude, he had pinned one end of it to the bridge with the idea of unfolding it! Bearing his precious burden with him, he came to the opposite end of the bridge, only, alas, to find that he still had yards to spare! The apology was accepted with many a broad grin.

EXPLAINING GODS OF EGYPT

Prof. Flinders Petrie Has Thrown Much Light on Sources of Mythology of Ancient Land.

The question of the character and origin of the local gods of Egypt is still obscure; but a paper by Prof. Flinders Petrie, published in "Ancient Egypt," part 3, 1917, does much to clear it up. Professor Petrie collected the original records of these cults, and by marking the headquarters of each deity he arrived at important results. Ra appears in only one southern city, and his cult seems to have come from the northeast. The distribution of Mut, the mother-goddess, is decidedly eastern, while that of Amen is western. Set was certainly brought into Egypt by the desert road, as he had there two centers of the first class, and he was introduced by the Red sea way to the eastern delta.

The distribution of the Osiride triad indicates a settlement so early in the land that the worship was generally diffused. Professor Petrie sums up his article thus: "The geography of the worship of the gods is thus seen to have a considerable value historically, as bearing on their origin and connections. When more complete research into the localities of various uncertain names may extend our identifications, it will be possible to get more light on the sources of Egyptian mythology."—Nature.

Where Civilization Started.

The lacustrine settlements were places of refuge for a pastoral and agricultural people and the light and dryness that characterized the dwellings show a step in advance toward more permanent abodes. In this period science places the beginning of civilization.

By these lacustrine men spinning and weaving were invented. Agriculture was born among them; animals were domesticated—the ox, the cow, the sheep, the goat, the dog. The uses of metal were discovered and the age of iron was ushered in.

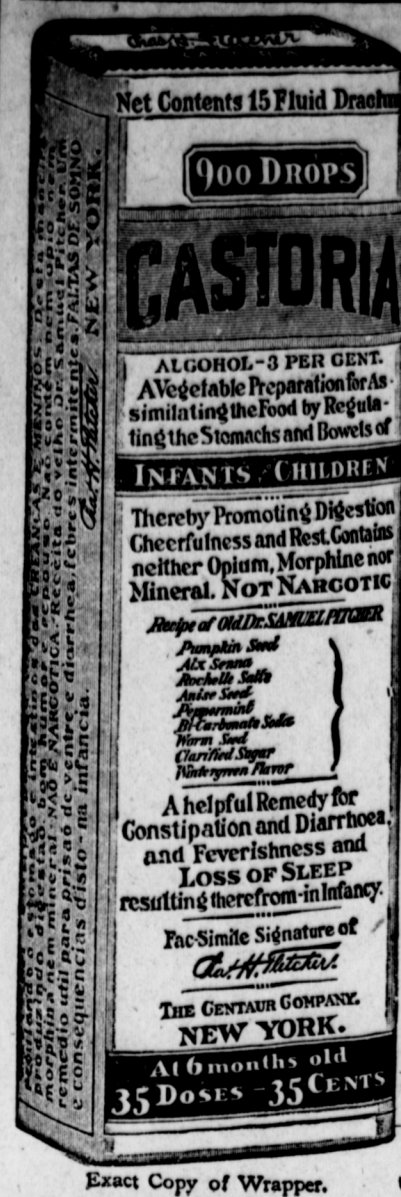

Habitations similar to these still exist in the East Indies and among the American tribes of Maracibo. They existed also in Lake Prasias, in Thrace, during the time of Herodotus, the Greek historian.

Chinese Exports of Human Hair.

Since the abolition of the queue after the fall of the Manchu dynasty long pigtails of Chinese hair are no longer readily available. The dealers are relying more and more on the combings of women, although there are men who make it a part of their business to let their hair grow to about eight inches in length and then sell it to the barber, who in turn sells to the small trade in hair. For exporting, hair is assorted according to length and tied in bunches. Most of the exports go to England, France and the United States, where the hair is bleached with peroxide, thinned with acid and boiled in dye. It is thus rendered finer in texture and, incidentally, absolutely sanitary. The appearance of the hair is also completely changed.

Little Danger of Salt Famine.

So universally needed, salt deposits are found in many parts of the world. The quantity of salt in the ocean is said to be equal to at least five times the mass of the Alps. Near Cracow, Poland, is a bed 500 miles long, 20 miles wide and a quarter of a mile thick. This mine is the greatest of its kind in the world and houses a complete city under the earth's crust engaged in operating the salt deposits. Houses, streets, electric lights and all the accessories of above-ground villages are here found. Mine mules have been born in the Cracow works, to live a long life of usefulness without once ever coming to the surface.

FARMHAND'S $25 EQUALS CITY MAN'S $80.

Those who have been thinking the farmhand has been underpaid should compare his wages with what the city man is paid. An editorial in the July Farm and Fireside says:

"The farmhand comes in for considerable discussion nowadays, but he is much better off than most people think. The Ohio State Council of Defense has been making a survey of labor conditions, and reports that a married man working on the farm for $30 a month is as well off as if he were to receive $105 in a city; that a $35 a month farm job equals a $110 city job; that a $40 farm job equals a $115 city job, and so on. 'Not taking into consideration,' the report adds, 'the possibility of raising some stock or produce on shares, which is usually customary.'"

"Nor has the married man on the farm job a monopoly of advantages, for the report further finds that an unmarried farmhand receiving $25 is as well off as if he were receiving $80 in the city; that a $30 job for the bachelor farmhand equals a $90 city job; and that a $40 job on the farm is as good as a $95 job in the city, and so on. The difference in aggregate returns is brought about by house rent, groceries, meat, milk, light, fuel, unnecessary expenses, and luxuries."

DISSATISFACTION GROWS.

Washington, July 11.—Dissatisfaction in Germany over the work of the submarines has not been lessened by the recent optimistic statements of Admiral von Capelle, says an official dispatch from Switzerland. In this connection the Cologne Volkszeitung is quoted as follows:

"We hear it said all around us that the results of the submarine warfare are becoming less satisfactory every week. Or else that more submarines are being sunk than we can construct. This submarine warfare is even cursed, doubtless because it has contributed to bringing into action the redoubtable American intervention."

HER FAMILY IN SERVICE ENOUGH FOR HUN ATTACK.

San Diego, Cal., July 12.—Mrs. Frederick A. Thompson declares that her service flag of six stars is significant of the fact that her offering to Uncle Sam would be able to conduct an exceptionally effective land and naval attack of the Huns. The stars represent her husband, a captain and assistant quartermaster, and five sons—Arthur, a sergeant in a hospital corps; Nat, in a field signal battalion; James, in a field artillery battalion; Fred, Jr., in an officers' training camp, and Donald, an apprentice seaman.

NAVY'S ALL RIGHT!

Dear Editor: I'm living easy at present, for have ample time for eating, sleeping, and last but not least working. There is no use of any one getting lonesome, for there are many things for amusement, but only my brother and myself from our county in this camp, but many boys from Kentucky. If every individual in Ohio could see how we are cared for here they wouldn't care for investing their money in Liberty Bonds and giving to Red Cross, also the Y. M. C. A.

I'm nursing both arms at present, but I will be in a good mood in a few days. The Navy is composed of men who volunteered, and mostly of men from colleges, and have given up good positions for only $35.90 per month. There is about forty thousand men stationed here, and new ones coming in all the time. Send me the Herald. Old address Hartford, Ky. R. 7.

BIG GUNS

TO SPREAD PROPAGANDA.

Paris, July 13.—Thousands of specially devised rifles for sending propaganda over the enemy lines now are in use in the allied armies, according to James Kerney, Director of the France-American Committee of Public Information.

From these rifles grenades are discharged, by means of which tracts and pamphlets may be scattered along enemy trenches with considerable exactitude at a range of more than 200 yards.

For greater distances small balloons, made of cloth, are used. Each of these lifts 20 pounds of propaganda literature, and by means of a mechanical device drops a quarter pound of these documents at fifteen-minute intervals. The radius of action of these balloons in a twenty-mile wind would be Hamburg, Berlin, Vienna and Trieste. The balloons travel at a height of from 6,000 to 8,000 feet.

Paper balloons capable of lifting four pounds also are used by the American army for the purpose of distributing literature in trenches and enemy billets for distances up to 100 miles from the starting point, the Director said. These balloons drop a half pound of material at five-minute intervals.

They use a fuse release consisting of a slow-burning match which is consumed at the rate of one inch every five minutes. The first release is effected five minutes after starting to make sure of compensating the balloon for the loss of gas.

The latest devices are planned to employ clock work for their releasing mechanism and the use of trench mortars with a cardboard projectile containing literature is being considered for the future. Airplanes are used occasionally for this purpose, but there are many objections to their employment.

The director added that steps now were under consideration for the use of diffusion of propaganda lines.

Many bits of propaganda already have been found in the pockets of German prisoners taken by the French and Americans. The nature of the propaganda distributed depends upon the German units in the vicinity, the purpose being always to supply from the various parts of Germany.

Recent distributions over the lines have included the disclosures of Prince Lichnowsky, German Ambassador at London at the outbreak of the war; the letters of Dr. von Muehlen, former Krupp director; figures showing the German losses, and facts about food conditions in the interior of Germany.

DUEL IS RESORTED TO.

Paris, Ky., July 12.—Two young men of Paris, whose names are withheld for obvious reasons and neither of whom has reached his majority, are enamored of a prominent young society woman of this city. She seemed to bestow her affections about equally between the two.

The other morning the two young men mutually decided to settle the matter on the field of honor by a duel, and obtaining an automobile and accompanied by seconds prepared amply to give first aid to the injured, they repaired to a secluded spot in the country. In the action which followed one of the young men received a stab wound in the back, while his opponent escaped unharm.

The seconds declared the affair off, and the injured youth was brought to town for medical assistance. His wound was found to be slight.

WIZARD OF PLANT LIFE HAS NEW VARIETY OF WHEAT.

Santa Rosa, Cal., July 10.—Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, has a new variety of wheat which he says will revolutionize the farm industry.

It is not the super-wheat he created soon after America entered the war, but a distinct variety that will produce 50 bushels to the acre that formerly produced only 12, and is rich in nutritive value.

"Corn is not a wheat substitute," Burbank says in his announcement. "I have given my time with patriotic intent and recent experiments have crowned my efforts with success."

SILENT TRIBUTE BY THOUSANDS TO LATE MAJ. MITCHELL.

New York, July 14.—The body of John Purroy Mitchell, in a flag-draped casket on which rested the cap which he wore as a major of aviation, was borne through the streets of New York while tens of thousands watched in silent tribute.

New York has seen other military funerals for heroes of the nation, but those who witnessed the solemn procession which escorted the former mayor's body from City Hall to St. Patrick's cathedral felt that none could have been more impressive. All along the route stood people with bared and bowed heads, many in tears.

The bell in the City Hall tolled as the casket was borne from the rotunda, where it had lain in state throughout the night, and was placed on an artillery caisson drawn by four horses, which conveyed it to the cathedral and thence to Woodlawn cemetery.

Thousands in Procession.

City Hall park was dense with citizens and the procession of soldiers, sailors, policemen, firemen, Red Cross nurses, civilians representing all city departments, distinguished men of the city, state, nation, and representatives of the Allies, had some difficulty in forming.

Behind the caisson followed Maj. Mitchell's horse with boots reversed in the stirrups and bearing also his reversed sword. Next came his widow and relatives in carriages, followed by the pallbearers. Also in line were Maj. Mitchell's comrades in arms aviators with whom he had trained for service in France. Military and city department bands fell in at appropriate intervals. The "Dead March From Saul," "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and other hymns were the music to which the procession marched as it made its way slowly to the Cathedral on Fifth avenue.

An airplane circled overhead as the march began, later to be joined by six others which flew back and forth over the route, dropping flowers. The hum of their motors carried to the crowds below a sorrowful significance for it was as an aviator that Mitchell died.

FIGHTING THE HUN OVER LONDON.

Sergeant Pilot Lamb, who fought the Hun in his airplane, says in the July Farm and Fireside:

"I was puzzled by not hearing any shots from Low, and as I put pressure on the left rudder bar to turn off, I glanced back at him. Dave had 'gone west.' He was lying back, with his head and chest riddled, kept in his seat by the wind pressure. At the same moment I felt a fierce pain in my right foot as it was yanked off the bar.

"As I had already begun to press on the left rudder bar in order to turn to get clear of the Gotha, when my right foot was jerked off the right rudder bar my left foot pressed spasmodically on the left, and with my allersons banked over for the turn I naturally went into a spin.

"I was suffering intense pain, but my head was fairly clear. I saw several of the Huns start after me and return to their formation, evidently convinced that I was done for. Keeping my head as best I could, I throttled down the engine, and when I was well below 10,000 feet I straightened out of the spin.

"I saw a mass of woods and, close by, an aerodrome. I didn't know it at the time, for I was rapidly becoming what we used to call in the States 'wooly,' but the woods were Heinault Forest, and the aerodrome was Heinault Farm, one of the landing stations in the air-defense system.

"I landed with a little bump as I began to get faint. My foot was in a pool of blood, and I felt sure my whole leg had been shot away. The last thing I saw was another machine close by with a crowd standing around it."

ANTI-GERMAN WAVE IS NOW SWEEPING.

London, July 11.—Every male enemy over eighteen in Great Britain, except those ill or helpless, will be interned and every female except those with husbands granted exemption from internment, will be repatriated was the report of a committee of the house of commons debated in parliament today and adopted.

The German banks' affairs will be wound up. The great anti-German agitation widespread throughout England is led by the Northcliffe newspapers. The committee proposes cancelling changes of names by aliens until six months after the war. Premier Lloyd George, in advocating the report, said after every German victory he received numerous anonymous letters, written by Germans in Britain, crowding over the British set backs.

MOLINE

UNIVERSAL TRACTOR

Model D

Because of its ideal design, construction and performance, this new Moline-Universal enables one man to farm more land and produce more food than ever before possible. It is the world's most dependable farm hand.

New features include self-starter; electric lights; electrical governor; perfected overhead valve, four-cylinder engine that is free from vibration; complete enclosure of all moving parts; differential lock which increases traction.

Drop forgings, heat-treated parts, steel cut gears and unusually large bearings add extra years of endurance.

These new features, together with the well known Moline-Universal type—all the weight on two wheels, one-man control and ability to do all farm work including cultivating—make the Moline-Universal Model D the best tractor money can buy.

Conservatively rated at 9-18, the new Moline-Universal has ample power for heavy belt work, and can plow as much in a day with two plows as the ordinary three-plow tractor, because of its greater speed. Yet it is light enough for such work as cultivating, mowing, etc., which do not require so much power.

We will be glad to tell you all about this wonderful tractor. The next time you are in town call on us.

CUT WEEDS BEFORE SEEDS MATURE.

Many weeds are propagated only by seeds. Weed seeds are produced in large numbers along roadsides, fence rows, and ditch banks, in vacant fields, and in waste places, and the seeds are scattered by wind, water, birds, and other agents. By cutting the weeds before the seeds are sufficiently mature to germinate, an enormous amount of trouble and labor and loss could be avoided; but only the most progressive farmers do this.
